Infocetera cuts costs/improves efficiency by allowing information to be created/shared online

WHEATON, 111. -June 25, 2001 — Eolas Consulting L.L.C. (EC), a developer of knowledge management (KM) information systems worldwide, recently partnered with WTS Systems, L.L.C., a software developer based in Boulder, Colo., to provide users with access to the Infocetera information management system.

Infocetera consists of a comprehensive suite of information management and group collaboration tools that enable users to create, organize and share information online. This highly configurable proprietary technology customizes functions-such as personal and group calendars, address books, “to do” lists, tracking tools, bulletin board, chat and multiuser whiteboards-to specific user requirements. Able to archive bulletin board postings, email messages and chat transcripts, it centralizes data access and improves workplace efficiency.

“Because it captures and stores information in a central database, Infocetera saves the
